CAP Systems helps thousands of nonprofit workers focus on the needs of the communities they serve

Running a Nonprofit Takes More Than A Good Heart

It is a noble thing to help others without asking much in return. As a society we reward these organizations for taking this great mission. But with the complexity of all the regulations, sometimes more time is spent working on being able to help others than actually doing the good you've set out to do.

To qualify for federal funding that supports your impactful work, you're required to collect and manage extensive data—often a complex and evolving task due to shifting government standards.

hat's where CAP Systems comes in. Their CAPTAIN software streamlines data collection and compliance, allowing service providers to focus more on delivering care and less on managing paperwork.

Supporting Children, Families, and others in Need of Help

CAP Systems has been helping others help others since 1989. Now it was time for them to help themselves. They updated their software to utilize Visual WebGUI back in 2010, but that wasn't enough. Their developers wanted a "more robust development suite that would allow us to build in more features and functionality", says Brian Cayer, President & CEO of CAP Systems. After lots of deliberation and searching, their calls were answered with Wisej.NET. He continues: "The Wisej.NET migration path was the key to making this choice."

The Evidence Doesn't Lie

For Brian, a number of features in Wisej.NET were key to making this project a success. He explains:

- Ease of migration

  With the many examples of other programs moved from Visual WebGUI, Wisej.NET became the clear answer.

- Service and Support

  The team working on Wisej.NET are best in class. With rapid responses and personalized support, no idea is out of reach.

- Front End Interface…

  A Better Performing Solution

  No matter how impressive the code is running your program, user experience makes or breaks everything. With Wisej.NET, you can have lightning fast performance and look good doing it.
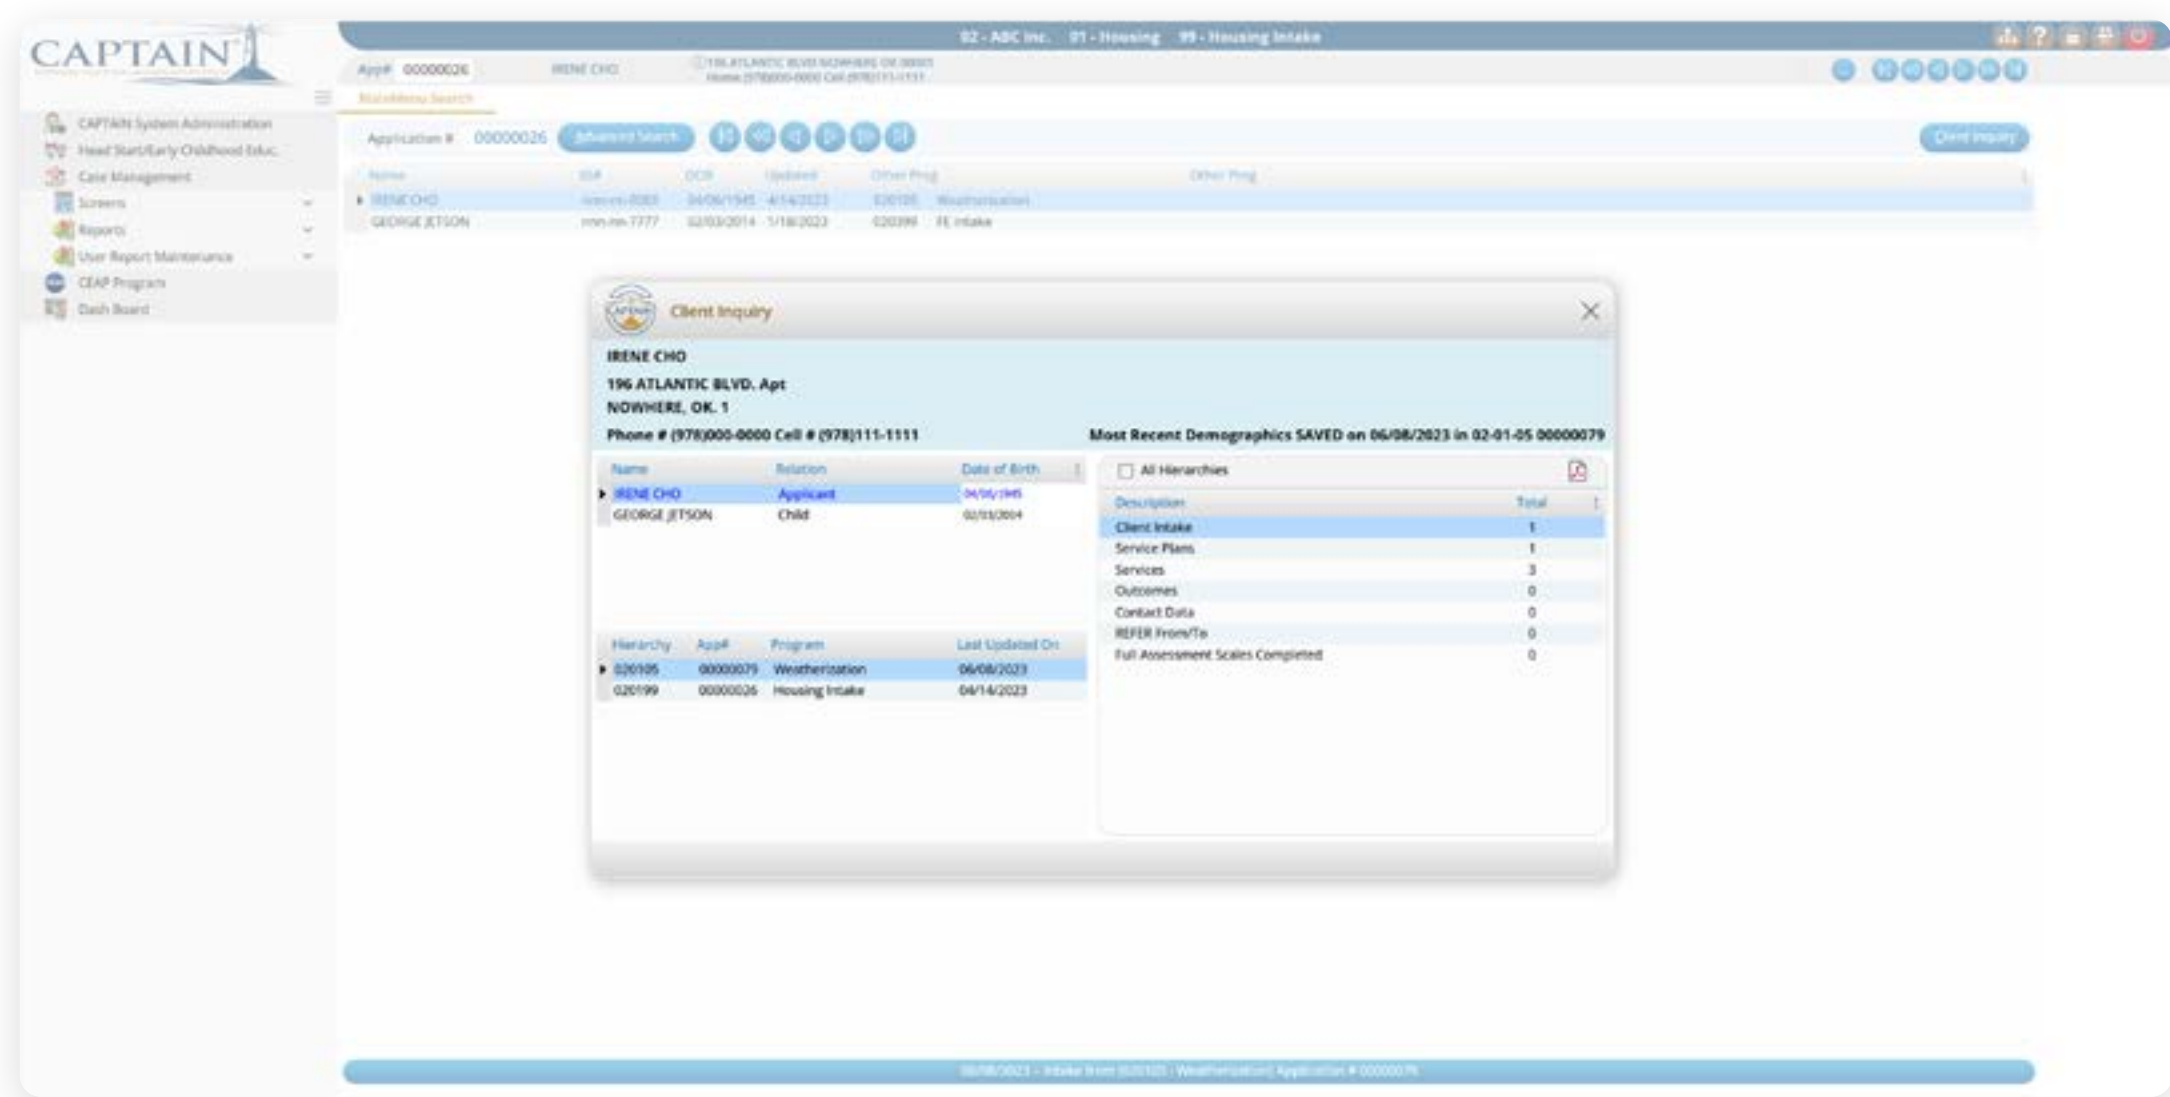

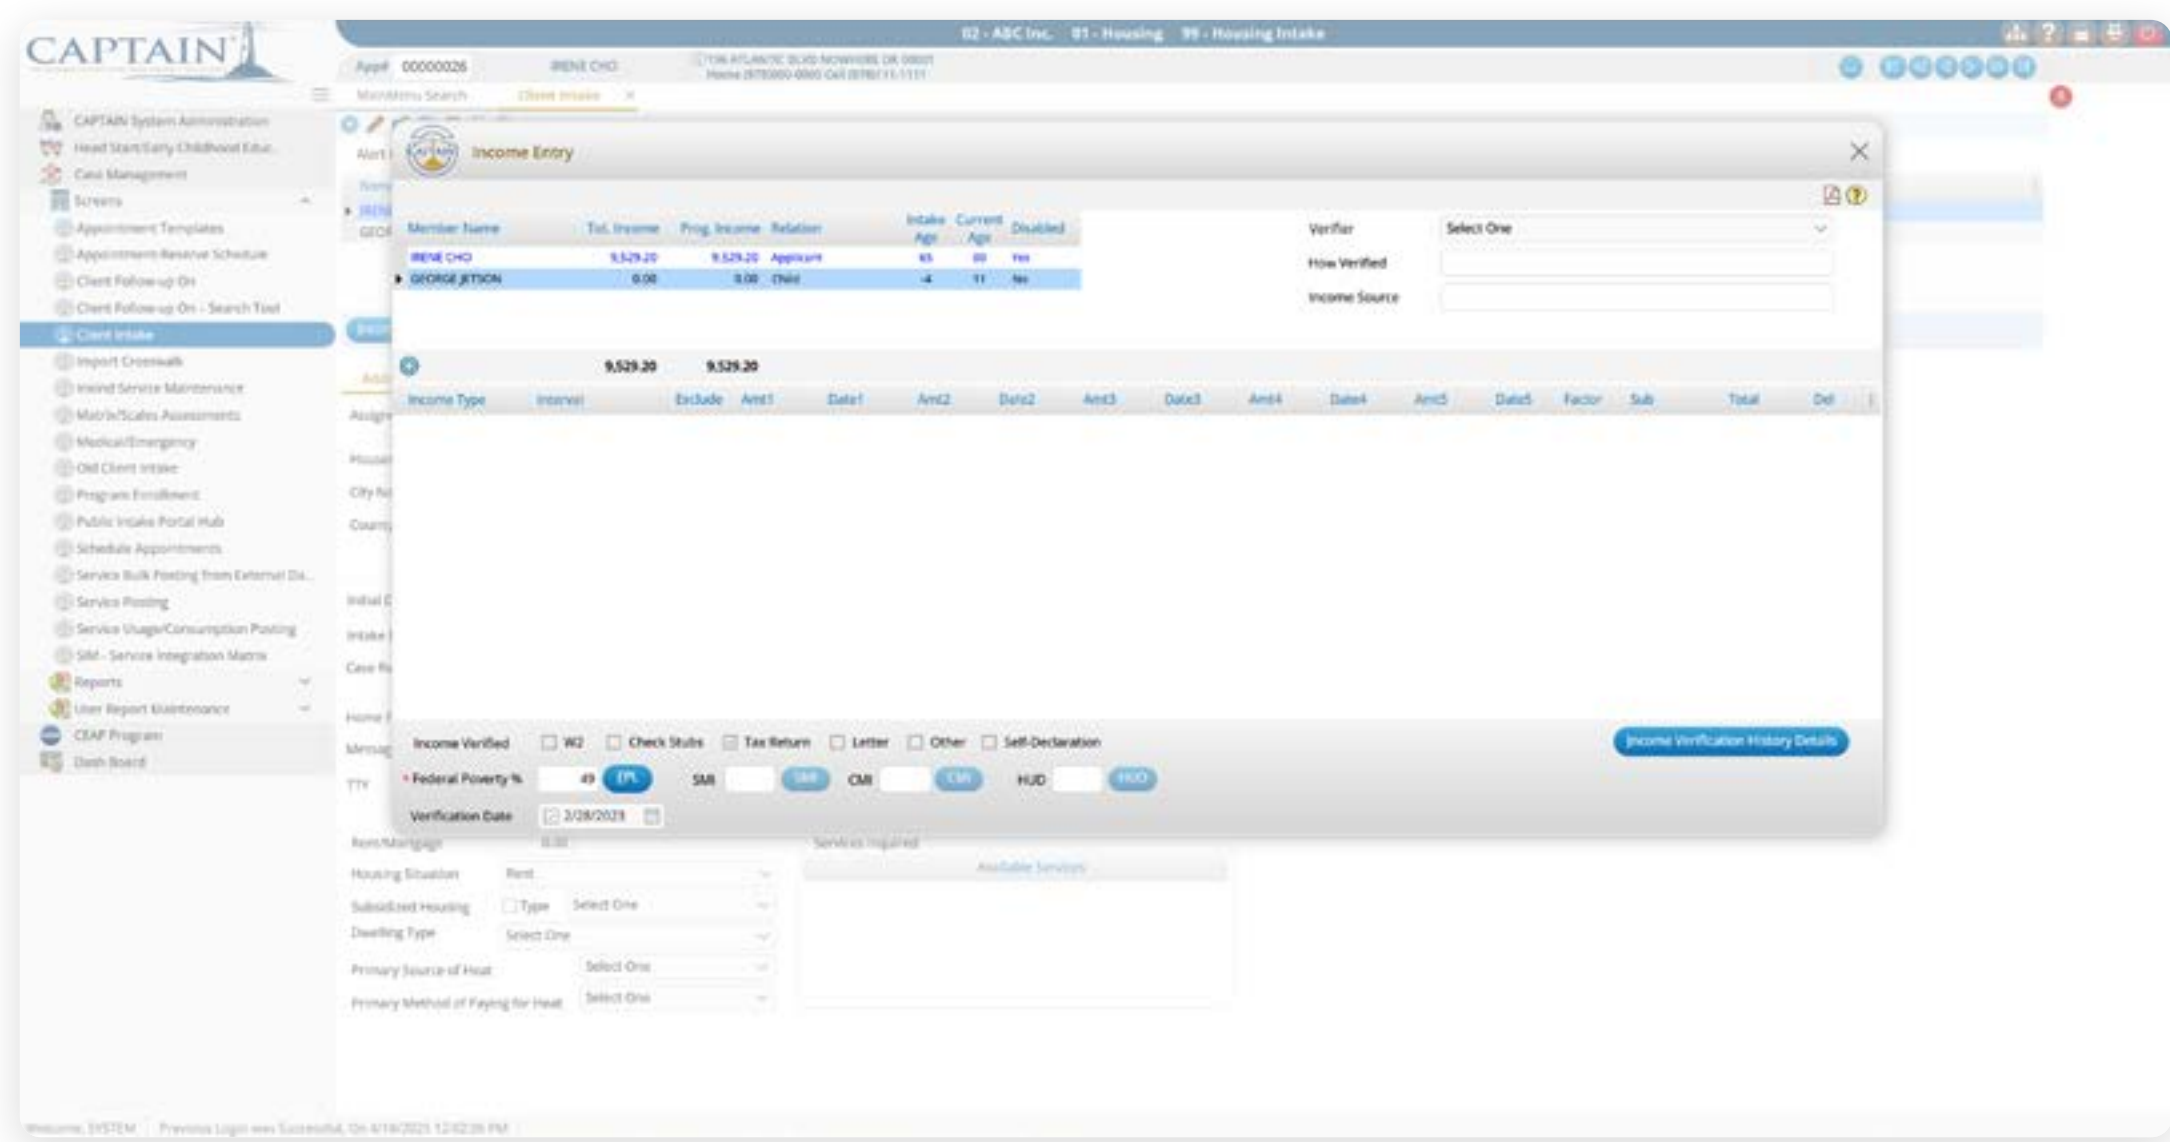

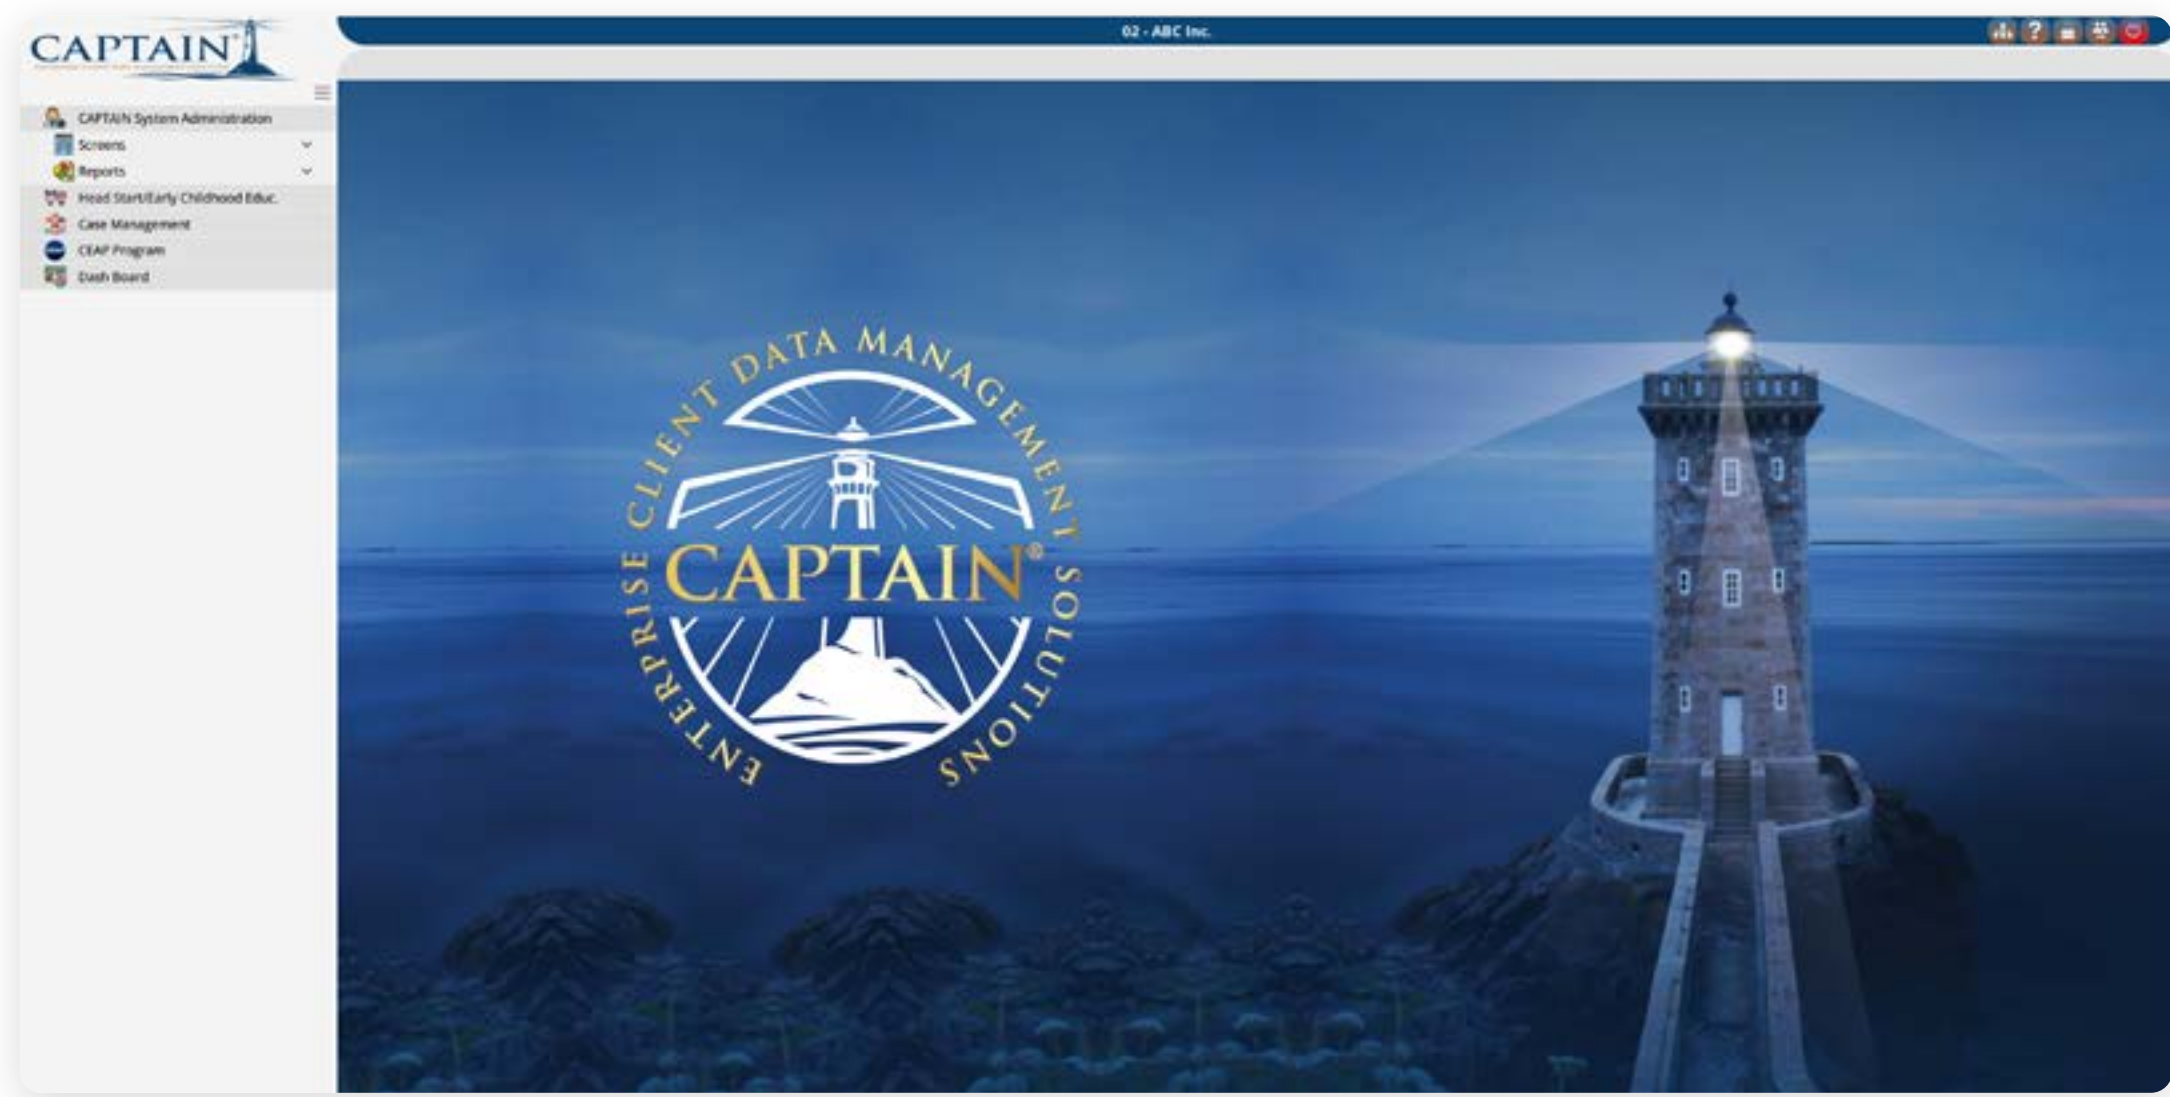

A Flexible and Future-proof Tool

Even when Wisej.NET's base tools aren't enough, the underlying framework is built in such a way that this is no issue. "The ability to strategically wrap third party products around our solution and the support and guidance of the Wisej.NET team has been another positive experience for us." Just because the development of the new version of the app is complete, doesn't mean the work is done. Ice Tea Group will continue to help CAP Systems help nonprofit organizations to help communities
